

The United States Secret Service National Threat Assessment Center (NTAC) and the Kansas City Field Office invite you to attend a free event

U.S. SECRET SERVICE PREVENTING TARGETED VIOLENCE IN PUBLIC SPACES

This conference will highlight NTAC’s research and operational guidance for implementing a proactive approach to targeted community violence prevention, as well as examine the thinking and behaviors of those who conducted mass attacks. It will also feature stakeholders with accessible resources to support efforts and interventions aimed at reducing the risk of harm posed by individuals who have elicited concern in others.

This event is intended for law enforcement, first responders, private sector security, workplace violence programs, large-scale event staff, government partners, analysts, mental health professionals, community support programs, hospitality staff, healthcare personnel, and others with a role in community safety.
