

Rachel Keck is a relationship-driven leadership strategist and author of Everyone Is Not Like You: Creating Authenticity and Connection in Today's Workplace. She works with visionary founders and "get it done" operational leaders to turn workplace tension into traction: grounding business growth in authenticity, clarity, and connection. With a background in customer experience, organizational development, spiritual growth, and emotional intelligence, Rachel brings both structure and soul to her clients' cultures. She invites leaders to align body, mind, and spirit, transforming not only how they lead, but how they live. Known for being both intuitive and practical, Rachel's work helps teams thrive in fast-paced, high-stakes environments without losing sight of their humanity.
